Undici Inox, in its freestanding version, is a gentle blend of archetypical simplicity and delicately elaborated details. The clarity of its geometries make the washbasin an extremely versatile design element. Undici Inox freestanding is available in a large number of finishes that can be specified separately for the painted support column and the basin that always features an exposed metal (natural brushed brass or stainless steel) interior with coordinated waste. The painted elements are also available with RAL on demand.&#10;
